

Amendment to the Specification

Please make of record the following Abstract:

A method for the pigmentation of a non-aqueous organic coating material containing a solvent, includes incorporating a coated, finely dispersed organic pigment with (meth)acrylate copolymers containing amino groups into an organic material containing a solvent. The coated pigment has a discharge of energy which is reduced by at least 20% compared to the corresponding non-coated pigment.